The haiku is stripped of any mediation of knowledge, of possession, of nomination, it's like a child pointing at something and saying 'That!'

Roland Barthes

Katsukawa Shuntei, 1795

The village festival begins
the crowd gathers in the noisy square
I remain silent.

DILETTA GAMBIRASI, 5A 2023-24

Ando Hiroshige,
Cherry blossom at night
1840-1842

As the blooming trees
are illuminated by the shining moon,
I drown in the sparkle of your eyes.

ISABELLA GIAMBI, 5A 2023-24

Katsushika Ōi,
Beauty Viewing Cherry Blossoms at Night, 1850

The night's luminous ranks are all scattered, inviting the fire arrow to pass through.

- MARIA ROCCA, 5A 2023-24

Utagawa Hiroshige,
Spring Rain, Tsuchiyama,
1833

I hope this tears
will wash my soul,
purify my sight

LORENZO CRISTOFANI, 5A 2023-24

Ohara Koson

Cormorant

1930s.

The birds fly away in the distance,
but in this storm,
I can't start without you.

ALESSANDRO PAOLINI, 5A 2023-24

Hiroshige

The sea in Satta in the province of Suruga

1858

富士三十六景
駿河薩多海上

Ohara Koson
Cormorant 1930s.

Broken waves
tell ancient stories
on the golden sand.

GIOVANNI GRAZIANI, 5A 2023-24

Utagawa Hiroshige,
Spring Rain, Tsuchiyama,
1833

I hope this tears
will wash my soul,
purify my sight

LORENZO CRISTOFANI, 5A 2023-24

Yoshitoshi
The Lonely House
1885

am not yours.
even chained
I'm free

- ANGELICA CRISPO, 5A 2023-24

*The print depicts the Hag of Adachi Moor,
who was said to drink
the blood of unborn children...*

Ogata Gekko,
Dragon rising to the heaven,
1887

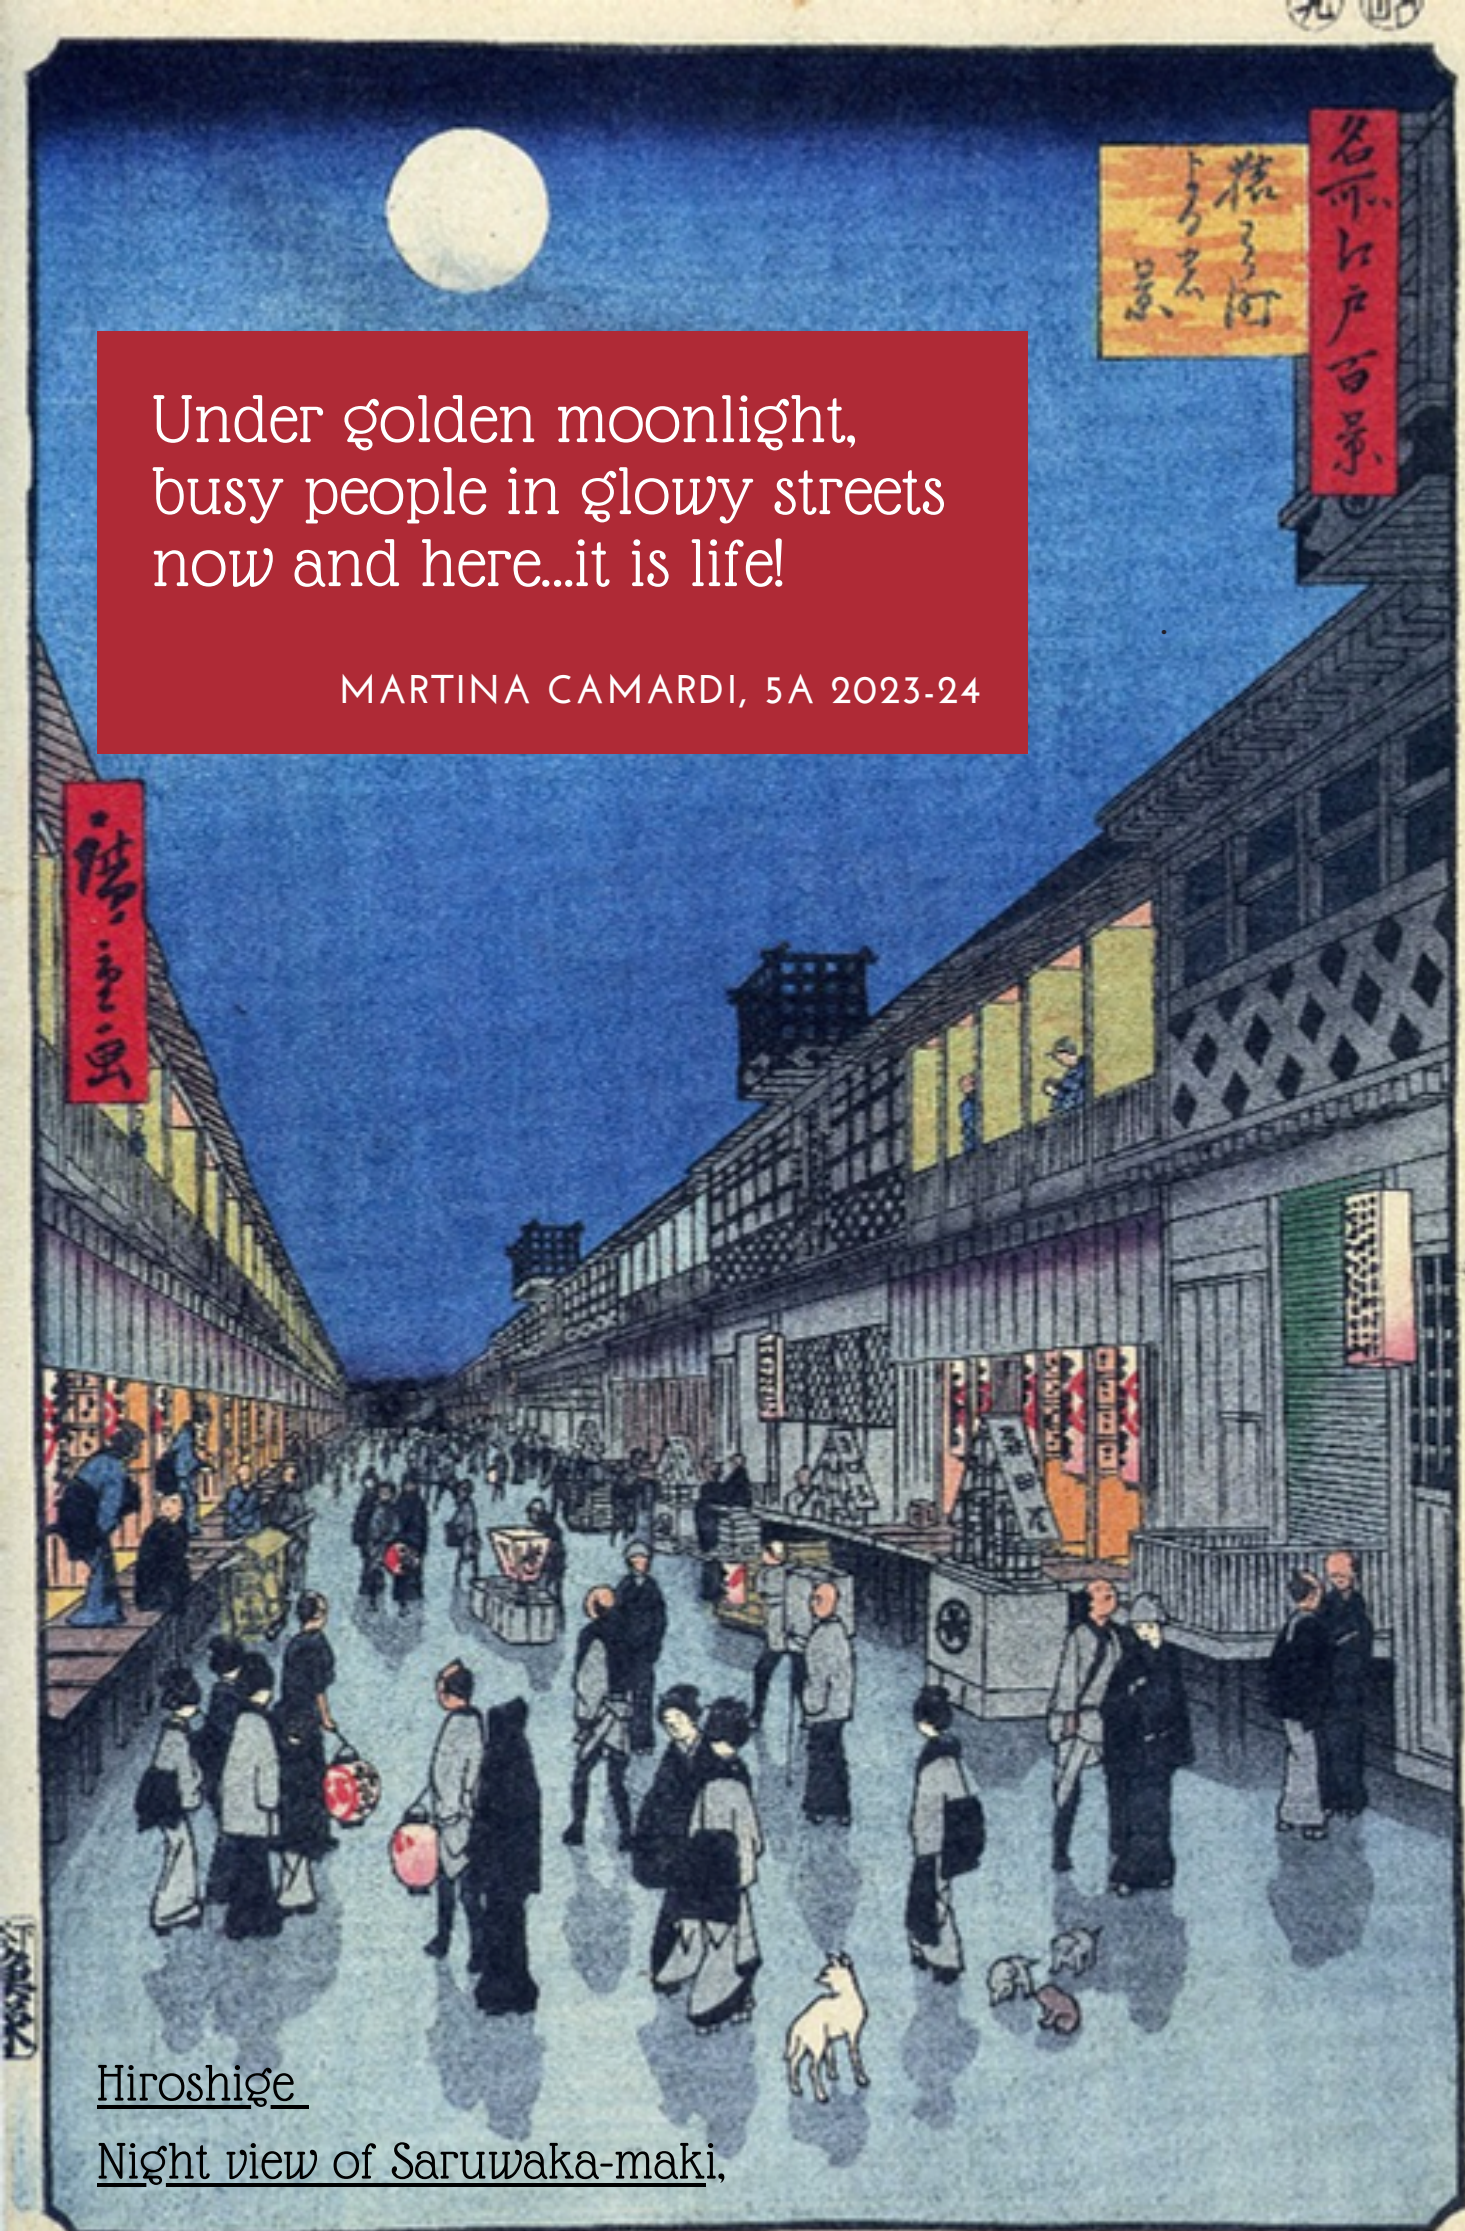

As the dragon ascends from the darkness
my soul must leave its past behind,
to reach greatness and virtue

SIMONE MARSELLA, 5A 2023-24

Under golden moonlight, busy people in glowy streets
now and here...it is life!

MARTINA CAMARDI, 5A 2023-24
